Missouri's budget director briefed the House Budget Committee on Monday with the details of Gov. Mike Parson's proposal to increase pay for state workers.

Parson's new budget included an 8.7% increase for state workers.

Budget director Dan Haug said that a 7.5% increase in 2022 decreased worker turnover from 30% to 27 %.

Sceptics said that was not enough.

Haug pointed out the Dollar General warehouse increased their wages by 20%, creating pressure that is hard for the state to match.

Parson wanted lawmakers to approve the budget by the end of March.
